Henry Perkins, a mild mannered C.P.A, accidentally picks up the wrong briefcase - one full of money. He assumes it is illicit cash and decides to keep it and make a run for it. He tells his confused wife to leave everything behind – they can buy whatever they need. The doorbell rings as they wait for their taxi. The police detective at the door thinks Henry was soliciting in the men's room of the local pub - actually, he was sitting in the loo counting the cash. The bell rings again. Another detective arrives thinking Henry is dead - a man with bullet holes in his head and Henry's briefcase were found in the Thames. Henry's inept attempts to extricate himself from this impossible situation lead to increasingly hysterical situations.
